CANADA AND "EQUAL NATIONHOOD."

A CONCESSION AND A CLAIM.

Toronto, March 27.—Two current developments are emphasizing Canada's progress toward nationhood. One is the definite announcement from London that Canada is to have a Minister Plenipotentiary in Washington; the other is an intimation from the Canadian Government that the Imperial Parliament is to be asked to amend the British North America Act (Canada's Constitution) so that future amendments may be made by Canada without reference to the Imperial Parliament.

As to the Canadian Minister at Washington, something will depend on the status given him, but the great thing is to have such a Minister appointed. Presumably hereafter the Canadian Government will be able to communicate with the United States Government directly through him without the circumlocution of sending despatches by way of London.

Some are worried over the question of whether the Canadian Minister will be responsible solely to Ottawa or whether he will be subordinate to Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador. But if the Canadian Government appoints him, pays his salary, and has power to recall him, there does not seem to be much room for argument, as to whom he will be responsible to. At the same time it is evidently intended that he shall fit in as part of the organization of the British Embassy. One report goes so far as to intimate that in the absence of the British Ambassador, the Canadian will act in his stead. This opens up interesting possibilities.

The request that Canada should have the right to amend her own Constitution arises not from a recognition that in theory the present situation does not conform with the idea of "equal nationhood" now being promulgated. So long as the Canadian Constitution can only be changed by an Act of the British Parliament Canada's status is technically that of a colony and nothing more. In practice, however, for many years Canada has understood the attitude of the Imperial Parliament to be that any request for a change in the British North America Act would be granted at once and no questions asked with one proviso, that the request be reasonably unanimous as far as the different parties and sections of Canada were concerned.

The proposal now is that the Canadian Parliament can itself make these changes provided all the Provincial Legislatures agree to them. It will be seen that this is a more stringent regulation than even the difficult provision under which the United States Constitution can be amended. But the problem which makes absolute unanimity of all the Provinces in Canada necessary is Quebec. Under the British North America Act certain rights to Quebec, granted when the Province was conquered and ceded by France, were perpetuated, and Quebec has always felt that she was more certain of justice and the continuation of her "rights" when in the hands of a British Parliament than she would be if thrown on the mercies of her neighbouring Provinces in Canada. Consequently the proviso that all Provinces must agree to proposed changes means chiefly that the other eight Provinces must not be allowed to "put anything over" on Quebec. The proviso will, of course, similarly safeguard any other Province.

Though there has been no clamour for changes in the British North America Act, it is possible important changes in it may follow its Canadianisation. For example, defenders of the Canadian Senate have always declared there was no use agitating for its abolition because the Imperial Parliament would never consent. Similarly it was said the Imperial Parliament would never consent to the abolition of court appeals to the Privy Council. If now it becomes possible to abolish the Senate and appeals to the Privy Council by Canadian action alone, it will be up to the advocates of these measures to show how earnest they are.

IN IRELAND.

London, June 1. Sir Horace Plunkett, writing to the "Times", appeals to patriotic Ulstermen to bring moral pressure upon those able to remove the Ulster difficulty and advocates the immediate direct concession of complete national self-government, restricted by strategic unity with the United Kingdom. He urges an appeal to Ulstermen to join in the offer to Sinn Fein of a united Ireland, ranking equivalent to the British dominions, and declares that while the Government ignores the Irish throughout the world Sinn Fein is effectively assuming executive and judicial functions. The "Times" comments that the warning is timely and largely justified.

Since the recent raids income tax offices in Ireland and the property and registry office in Dublin called King's Inns have been constantly guarded by troops. This afternoon thirty armed men undisciplined effected a daring coup, surprised the sentry, covered the troops in the guardroom with revolvers, seized and carried off in two motor cars a machine gun, ten rifles, two revolvers, steel helmets, and other military accoutrements. The affair lasted less than five minutes.

Later. The assailants numbered a hundred. They captured five hundred rounds of ammunition. The guard consisted of two non-commissioned officers and nine men.

Cork Harbour Board has ordered the Republican flag to be flown on Admiralty Pier at Queenstown and other harbour buildings but deleted the motion including ships controlled by the Board, fearing the British forts at the mouth of the harbour would fire on and sink them.

The large military store at Bere Island, one of the chief military centres in South Ireland, was destroyed by fire. The damage amounts to thousands of pounds.

QUESTION-TIME.

London, June 2. In the House of Commons, replying to Mr. Ruffin, Mr. Bonar Law stated that President Wilson accepted the invitation to delimit the borders of Armenia under the Turkish Peace Treaty.

Replying to Mr. Hodge, Mr. Bonar Law explained that the Hythe Conference had not established any new financial commission, but referred certain proposals discussed between the French and British Ministers to experts for further examination with instructions to report for information to the French and British Governments. The experts had not yet reported. It was no part of their duty to fix the amount of German indemnity. He was not sure if any report would ever be published.

THE FIGHTING POLES.

London, June 1. Disputes between Poles and Czechs in the plebiscite territory in Silesia have culminated in a report from Paris that Poland has decided to break off diplomatic relations with Czechoslovakia. The Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, who is in London, has petitioned the League of Nations to send a Commission to the plebiscite area to conduct an independent enquiry.

BRITAIN AND RUSSIA.

London, June 1. The "Evening Standard" says the Soviet will be permitted to open a central trading office in London with a view to organising exchange of goods. Reuter's enquiries fail to confirm this but it is pointed out that British goods cannot be exported to Russia but there is nothing to prevent Mr. Krassin opening an office in London to exchange views with British traders.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

Berlin, June 1. A communiqué states that the Russo-German Governments have ratified an agreement for the exchange of respective war prisoners. Repatriation transports will proceed in alternative turns. There will be no detentions. All repatriates are promised political amnesty.

THE TRUE GERMAN.

Paris, June 1. The Ministry of Commerce, referring to the recent Franco-German Industrial Conference at Paris, says the Germans hoped to reach a separate secret agreement with France apart from the other Allies.

SOUTH AFRICA AND SPA.

London, June 1. Reuter is informed that South Africa will not be represented at Spa, the Union Government being of opinion that its views are already sufficiently known.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

Geneva, June 2. The Women's Societies of India, Egypt, China, Japan and Palestine have announced their intention to send representatives to the International Suffrage Conference at Geneva on June 6.

THE DERBY.

Derby Day was sunny. The dry weather of the past few days continued ideal for the greatest British sporting event, which was manifestly more popular than ever. Ten thousand people slept on Epsom Downs. From the early hours railways and roads bore record crowds. The road from London was packed from end to end with the most varied forms of traffic crammed with occupants. Many motors came from further afield, even as far as Lancashire and South Wales. A feature was the continued diminution of horse drawn vehicles. The visitors included a party of St. Dunstan's blinded soldiers. Their Majesties were present, being greeted with deafening cheers. The Derby time of 2:34.45 is a record. Allenby broke a blood vessel. Tetrapuma, the favourite at 3-1, did not finish in the first dozen.

THE BRITISH NAVY.

London, June 1.

In the House of Commons, speaking on the Navy Estimates, Commander Bellairs hoped the Imperial Defence Committee would soon meet to consider naval policy. He asked if the Fleet was to be concentrated in home waters or were we to have a great Pacific Fleet? He said now that there was no menace in the North Sea we must have an outlook on the Pacific.

Admiral Hall thought the naval policy should be left to the Committee on Imperial Defence and not discussed on the floor of the House.

Mr. Long agreed with Admiral Hall and said there were certain matters of policy which should not be discussed in the House of Commons. He mentioned that a whole series of questions of future policy were now before the Committee for examination. Such declaration of policy as could be made would be made as soon as the Admiralty saw its way clear. Referring to criticism, Mr. Long denied that the Admiralty was spending more than it ought on oil fuel bases. Every ship turned out now was oil driven. Oil was the fuel of the future and our present command of supplies was small. It was the bounden duty of the Admiralty to see our storage was such that it was impossible for our ships to be deficient in supplies wherever they might be throughout the world.

WHY "DRESS"?

TYRANNY OF EVENING
WEAR.

Shouldn't a man decently dressed in black be sartorially qualified to go anywhere? And if not, why not? asks a correspondent in an Australian paper.

No man with sufficient balance to refrain from wearing a Henry VIII. costume at a race meeting or a church bazaar can explain why he should go to the theatre disguised as a waiter or an undertaker's offider. Yet he does it and extracts pleasure from the mental and physical misery it enacts of his irrationalism.

Neither can the man who refuses to wear the boots of a deep-sea pilot at a wedding explain why he cannot approach the Prince of Wales garbed as when he interviews the president of the Millions Club or the secretary of the Rentpayers' Association. He is a democrat, and would be very annoyed were you to chide him with grovelling before the dictates of that fastidious old fop, Good Form, who has evidently survived the world war and the H. C. L.

Let any theatre manager demand that each patron represent a character say in history, before being admitted. What an outcry there would be! What talk of oppression! "Do you think we are a lot of silly women, sir?"

Yet an order of that kind would relieve the awful pronotomy of a distressing array of citizens who present the appearance of waiters with one ear on the dialogue and the other on the dinner bell, or of a mournful gathering of undertakers' assistants in attendance at a communal interment.

Yet the objector willingly struggles into a boiler-plate shirt and collar and cut-away coat with ridiculous tails that make him imagine he is in a straight-jacket—as he deserves to be. The miserable wretch cannot turn to recognise a friend without risk of being subjected to an excruciating pinch by his impossible collar, or bursting his bulging boiled shirt, which essays to force his collar over his ears.

When the primitive human being was invited out to dine owing to the inviter's tribe having just killed a lot of the enemy in prime condition, he put on a thick shirt of tough skin to protect his own pelt in case the convivial proceedings ran to fighting. In unthinking memory whereof he now armors his body for festive occasions with a shirt having a white pine front.

And apparently because the remote ancestors ascribed to us by some savants swung their tails as they sat on the tree-top and masticated a kind of nuts, to-day we are not dressed for company unless our coats have two streaming tails.

Should a person take a sea trip to another capital the farce and the misery and the hypocrisy are repeated on a holiday occasion. He is not satisfied until he looks on a boat where "dress for dinner" is compulsory. He does not enjoy his meals, but he feels that he is not of the common comfortable multitude relishing a pork chop in an Assam silk suit; and he is happy in his misery.

So also in the case of a trip to the Mountains in the summer, when the natural impulse is to shed the stiff and suffocating habiliments of the conventional city for the garb of easy life and fresh air touched with the champagne flavour of the sun. It is not a holiday in the sense of easing his weary bones and relaxing mental tension. He would have been happier in a singlet and ducks turned up at the bottoms.

Such is the freeman enslaved by fashion; the democrat chained by convention; the pleasure-seeker pinched by torture; the tired man burdened by formality; the unconventionalist who despises the cocked hat of vice-royalty and the embalmed animals that swathe the forms and bang from the necks of women of fashion.

Why not revolt in the name of common comfort?

CRIMEAN VETERAN MARCHES.

A notable feature in an Anzac parade in Australia was the presence in the procession of a Crimean veteran, Ex-Sergeant J. Gamble, 42nd Black Watch. He took part in the first Boer War, Indian Mutiny, and Zulu War, and is said to be one of the survivors of the famous charge at Inkerman.

Such is the freeman enslaved by fashion; the democrat chained by convention; the pleasure-seeker pinched by torture; the tired man burdened by formality; the unconventionalist who despises the cocked hat of vicereignty and the embalmed animals that swathe the forms and hang from the necks of women of fashion.

Why not volt in the name of common comfort?

CRIMEAN VETERAN MARCHES.

A notable feature in an Anzac parade in Australia was the presence in the procession of a Crimean veteran, Ex-Sergeant J. Gamble, 42nd Black Watch. He took part in the first Boer War, Indian Mutiny, and Zulu War, and is said to be one of the survivors of the famous charge at Inkerman.

ENGLISH CUP FINAL.

VILLA WINS AFTER EXTRA TIME.

"Corinthian" writes in the Daily Chronicle of April 25 as follows:

Just one lucky goal, scored after seven minutes' play in the extra time, made football history in the England Cup final at Stamford Bridge on Saturday.

That goal will be talked about for many days, as the getting of it might as well be told of right away; there have been many versions of how it happened. Dorrell, the young Villa outside-left, who had not shown the best of form during the game, forced a corner off Wood, Dorrell took the kick, and placed the ball at just the right height to the head of Kirtton.

That player headed the ball in a direction where the Huddersfield goalkeeper would have saved but for an unfortunate intervention of the head of Wilson, who, in trying to send the ball away from goal, merely succeeded in diverting it out of reach of Mutch, and into the net.

TRUE STORY OF THE GOAL.
You may take it that that is the true story of the way in which this momentous goal was scored. Some people have introduced Stephenson into the last touches, and others have said that the ball was going wide when Wilson (what a magnificent game he played), made his mistake; but it was just as I have stated, and I have confirmed my opinion in several quarters among the players and also the referee.

Just as when the Villa were presented by accident with the goal by which they defeated Tottenham Hotspur, the conqueror of the point was the great man of his side. Clay, for the Hotspur, played a wonderful game, and on Saturday Wilson, at centre-half, did more work than any other man on the field. If an individual could have won this match Wilson would have done so.

WONDERFUL WILSON.
No man in this match compelled my admiration more than Wilson did, and that he should have been the unwilling medium of the defeat of a team he had stifled so gallantly for was a thousand pities.

In the finer points of the game there is no doubt that the Villa were the better side. They tried much close passing, and, as a result of that, conveyed the ball to within shooting distance more frequently than the Huddersfield forwards could. The fault with the winners' forwards, however, was failure to get the Huddersfield defenders away from goal, for, whenever the chance of a shot arrived, there was always a heap of men crowded around goalmouth, to charge down shots.

On several occasions Huddersfield got the ball to within a few yards of goal after drawing the Villa defenders out of their places. Quite early in the game Islip centred (by the way, the linesman failed to notify the fact that the ball had gone two feet over the goal-line before the deputy outside-left got his kick in), and the ball went easily to the head of Taylor, who would have scored had he placed the ball wide enough of Hardy; instead of which he sent the ball straight to Hardy's hands. That in itself was bad, but the play which reduced the Villa to such a higgledy-piggledy state was excellent.

HUDDERSFIELD'S LOST CHANCES.
Again before half-time Swann and Taylor had possession of the ball when well inside the penalty area and the Villa defenders were all out of reach. There was some extraordinary hesitation on the part of Taylor, and in a few seconds the Villa backs and half-backs raced back into goal. Swann tried to back-beat the ball through, but the ever-alert Hardy pounced upon it and threw it out to a colleague.

Later Islip centred to the front of the goalmouth, and there was only Barson to kick away. In making for the ball Barson slipped and fell, and yet no Huddersfield man could get the ball into the net. Another great chance which Huddersfield had was when Taylor, running out to the right wing, centred to Swann and Islip, who were standing in-

RUSH FOR THE TRAM.

"A MERE SQUABBLE".

For the alleged offence of slapping the complainant's face whilst on a tramcar, A. Grunnett, living at No. 10 Morrison Hill Road, was this morning summoned before Mr. N. L. Smith by Omar Ismail.

Mr. Leo d'Almada appeared for the complainant and asked his Worship to grant a remand of the case.

His Worship:—Do you admit the assault?
Defendant:—No, your Worship.

His Worship:—Complainant has been made to me by Ismail that you slapped him in the face.
Defendant:—That was a mistake.

The defendant said that he was waiting in company with three ladies for the car at the King Edward Hotel. The complainant, who knew that they were anxious to get into the car, went a few yards ahead of other people and slipped into the car, which, in the defendant's opinion, was not the correct thing to do. He told the complainant as much when he found the latter standing inside the car. It was preventing the other ladies from getting seats, he said. They should be allowed to get in first. The complainant had then replied:—"What is it to you? Who are you? I pay my fare."

After a lecture on the correct mode of behaviour, the defendant had then given "a little push" to the complainant.
Mr. Smith, after hearing the defendant's story of the case, viewed the affair as a mere squabble.

Mr. d'Almada disagreed with his Worship's view. He said that the complainant had a good case. If the evidence were heard it would show that the defendant, who was absolutely unprovoked, had committed a gratuitous assault.

His Worship remarked that people were all liable to give way to their feelings sometimes. He adjourned the case for hearing at another date.

marked. The ball should have been trapped and a shot made, but Taylor tried to head through, sending the ball outside.

All these incidents happened before the 90 minutes had gone by, and they all tended to prove that it was possible for the Yorkshires, forwards, to nonplus the Villa defence. Although they had played the better football, the Villa had not made opportunities quite so good as these, and that was in all probability due to the fact that their weakest forward, Dorrell, had the best opportunities, but spoiled them by ill-placed centres and shots under circumstances which made it next to impossible for him to score.

GREAT TACKLING, NO SHOOTING.
In this match of terrific pace there was scarcely a really good shot sent in, the best being by Walker, when Mutch made a brilliant save, with his left hand held low. The tenacity of the tackling on both sides was accountable for the absence of good shooting, for neither team yielded an inch of ground during the two hours' play.

Aston Villa won because what bit of luck was going was supported by all the subtleties of high-class football, whereas Huddersfield lost by missed opportunities, and that huge trifle of misfortune when the goal was scored. The losers prided themselves to be just about the most rigorous side seen at Chelsea this season; but, with all the vigour, there was little that was undesirable on either side, an admirable game being splendidly controlled by Mr. J. T. Howcroft.

CZECHO-SLOVAK ELECTIONS.
Prague, April 20.—According to the Pravda Lidu, the elections to the Chamber have resulted in the Socialist Parties obtaining 141 seats, of which the Czech Democrats obtained 77, and the German Social-Democrats 32. The Bourgeois Parties obtained 137 seats, of which the Agrarians obtained 41, the German Party 40, and the Clericals 35.

A ROOF CHASE.

THIEF CAUGHT ON BANK BUILDING.

In the early hours of yesterday morning an exciting chase after a criminal on the roof of the Bank buildings produced some disturbance in the locality.

It was ascertained by the Police when the man was handed over to their custody that he had made use of the servants' quarters in the Chartered Bank building in gaining the roof, and that walking along the parapet he had then jumped the space which intervened between that building and the Victoria Building. In this way he was able to get within reach of a window of the office of the Siamese Consulate, but, finding nothing in it worth his attention, he crept to another window, and peeping in, met the gaze of the No. 1 Office Boy, who, with great promptitude, went after the intruder, who hurriedly scrambled back across the roof to the Chartered Bank building. Here he was overtaken and a desperate struggle ensued in which, with the help of another coolie, the No. 1 Office Boy succeeded in gaining the mastery over the criminal.

In charging the prisoner before Mr. N. L. Smith at the Police Court this morning, Sub-Inspector Willis said that the man was formerly employed in the Bank of Canton but was dismissed on account of laziness. A pair of shoes which belonged to him was found on the roof after a search which the Police conducted at daylight.

Sentence of four weeks' hard labour was passed on the prisoner.

PORTUGUESE BOYS.

SENTENCED TO GAOL.

Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was to-day passed by Mr. R. O. Hutchinson on the three Portuguese boys, Francisco Silva, Francisco Mendes, and William Seina, who were convicted on two charges of breaking into No. 5, Blue Buildings and stealing money and jewellery to the extent of $247 from Mr. D. J. Santos, and stealing, by the practice of fraud, three bicycles from a shop in Kowloon and disposing of them afterwards at Canton to a dealer.

Inspector Kent in pressing for a heavy penalty, said that the prisoners were regular criminals, with no fixed abode and living on their wits. Silva was the adopted son of Mr. Santos who ran away from home at Easter, and was heard of only on the night that he and his companions were arrested at the Canton wharf in an endeavour to escape to the Chinese port with the haul which they had effected in their burglarious enterprise. The property, minus a certain proportion which the boys had spent, was recovered for the owner.

WHEN CUTTING HIS TEETH
THIS BABY SUFFERED GREATLY
BABY'S OWN TABLETS WERE ALL THAT HE NEEDED.

Mr. W. Pelham, of McCreary, Manito, writes:—"I consider Baby's Own Tablets a splendid medicine for children. My baby was very ill when cutting his teeth and greatly troubled with tooth-rash, inflamed mouth and nervousness. He was unable to take food for two days owing to ulcerated mouth, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the symptoms soon healed, and his health improved in every way. Another thing in favour of the Tablets is that they are much easier to give to a young child than a liquid medicine."

Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, are guaranteed perfectly harmless, even to the youngest infant, and are recommended for simple fever, indigestion, constipation, colic, diarrhoea, croup, eczema, also to expel worms. They make teething easy, induce soothing, healthful sleep, in a natural way, aid the appetite and promote normal growth.

Obtainable from chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 95 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

INDIAN POLICE PAY.

PETITION TO THE

The following copy of the petition sent to the Captain Superintendent of Police by the Indian members of the force is sent us for publication. Messrs. Lo and Lo acted for the men.

1. Owing to the increasingly high cost of living in the Colony, your Petitioners have found it well-nigh impossible to support themselves and their dependents on the salary they have been getting, and your Petitioners have accordingly been looking with the gravest anxiety and expectancy to a material amelioration of their lot as the outcome of the commission appointed by His Excellency the Governor to enquire into the salaries of the Government Servants.

2. Your Petitioners have been indescribably disappointed by the extreme inadequacy of the increase contemplated by the new scale which has just been announced.

3. The old scale and new scale are as follows:—

Constables.
Old Scale.—1st class $15.50 a month, $1.75 good conduct badge allowance, $1.00 ration allowance. Total: $18.25.
New Scale.—$18.00 a month, $6.00 ration allowance. Total: $24.00.

This works out at an increase of approximately 30 per cent.
Old Scale.—2nd class $13.50 a month, $0.75 good conduct badge allowance, $1.50 ration allowance. Total: $15.75.
New Scale.—$15.00 a month, $6.00 ration allowance. Total: $21.00.

This works out at an increase of approximately 33 per cent.

Old Scale.—3rd class $12.50 a month, $1.50 ration allowance. Total: $14.00.
New Scale.—$11.00 a month, $6.00 ration allowance. Total: $17.00.

This works out at an increase of approximately 25 per cent.

The old scale does not include allowances for special duties and theatre duties.

Lance Sergeants.
Old Scale.—3rd class $18.75, 2nd class $19.75, 1st class $20.75.
New Scale.—3rd class $20 plus $5 ration allowance, 2nd and 1st classes $21 a month plus $5 ration allowance.

This works out at an increase of approximately 37 per cent. for the lowest grade and 30 per cent. for the highest.

Sergeants.
Old Scale.—$22.25 rising to $25.25.
New Scale.—$22.00 rising to $27.00, $5.00 ration allowance.

This works out at an increase of approximately 25 per cent. for the lowest grade and 32 per cent. for the highest grade.

Ration allowances are, of course, not permanent, and in any case their value to your Petitioners varies according to the amount charged by the Government Contractor against your Petitioners, and decreases as the Government Contractor's charges increase.

4. The salaries for your Petitioners have remained more or less stationary for the past twenty years, whereas it is notorious that the rate of increase in the Colony for the corresponding period has been very much over 100 per cent.

In this connection your Petitioners desire to point out that the salaries of European constables in about 1899 were from $25.00 to $40.00 a month; that they were increased from time to time and are now from $180.00 to $185.00 a month, which works out at over 100 per cent. increase.

5. Your Petitioners desire respectfully to point out:—

(a) That they have come from a distance of about 5,000 miles, separated from home and their people.

(b) That they are subject to ailments as the result of the difference between the Hongkong and their native climate.

(c) That Indian watchmen at the Naval Dockyard and Gaol warders get more salary than your petitioning Sergeants.

(d) That private Indian watchmen get $25.00 a month, which is about twice the amount which your petitioning constables are getting.

Your Petitioners need not point out that their duties are more onerous and involve greater responsibilities than the above named persons.

6. Your Petitioners have eight hours of duty in twenty-four hours, whereas the European members of the force have only six hours in twenty-four hours.

(f) The European members of the force get $20.00 allowance when stationed in the New Territories; your Petitioners get none.

7. There are at the present time 1st class constables of over 15 years' service who have not obtained promotion on account of there being no vacancy.

8. Your Petitioners respectfully submit the following proposals for the sympathetic consideration of His Excellency the Governor:—

(a) Your Petitioners' salaries should be half of the present salaries of the European members of the force of equivalent rank, that being the case as between European and Indian members previous to 1890.

(b) Instead of the usual "remittance" all salaries should be paid at the fixed rate of exchange of two rupees to $1.00, which is the case with other Government servants; for instance the European members are paid two shillings to $1.00.

(c) Your Petitioners' pension rate should be the same as that of the European members of the force; that is two-thirds of their substantive salaries.

(d) The language allowances should be the same for your Petitioners as for the European members of the force; for your Petitioners submit that it must be as difficult for Indians to master the English and Chinese languages as it is for the European to master Hindi and Urdu.

(e) The existing regulations should be modified to attain the following objects:—

1. All senior members of the force on qualifying for pension should be compelled to retire, thus affording the junior members the requisite opportunity for promotion.

2. All those who have been acting Sergeants for the past five years or more should be promoted Sergeants.

3. After five years' service your Petitioners should be given eight

SHIPPING AND THE STATE.

Vitaly interested as it is in shipping, Hongkong is naturally concerned with the question as to whether private ownership or State control is the ideal management of the great trade carrying industry of the world. Recently we have heard much of the question as to whether the boats of the United States Shipping Board are to be handed over to private companies, or whether the State organisation, under whose control they are at present run, is to continue its operations. For British shippers this latter question has not a great deal of interest because, apart from competition, they are not concerned with it. But it is very easy to ascertain the view of Home shippers in regard to State management, most of the leading shipping newspapers of the country being very emphatic in their condemnation of anything but private ownership and competition. However much one may fancy that State ownership would work for the eventual benefit of shipping as a trade, there can be no question that left to private initiative and competition its stands to gain in efficient administration and immediate usefulness.

One of the leading Home journals in commenting on the State's relationship to shipping recently stated that it was a hopeful sign that even Labour leaders, and, indeed, many of the rank and file, have ceased to be obsessed by State control of industry, and particularly by anything approaching the nationalisation of shipping. With the amount of tonnage which is likely to be affected by the end of the present year shipowners will need all their reserve to tide them over the lean period which lies ahead. To talk of profits is futile reasoning to-day. It is believed that nationalisation would be unsatisfactory from the point of view of those who man the Mercantile Marine, and would result in a lowering of wages and dietary. It would be a burden on the State, which would be compelled to pay interest on the capital employed, whether ship operation proved profitable or resulted in loss. That it would increase the cost of living, owing to the impossibility of any Government department managing the business as efficiently as private ownership, is a third argument against nationalisation; and a fourth is that, with shipping nationalised, the men employed would lose their principal weapon to force reforms, which is still the strike. Most men realise that any policy to nationalise shipping is as dead as the dodo. Some may seek to revive it, but even the most casual observer cannot be blind to the fact that wherever the State has attempted to manage great industries it has made a lamentable failure of the business. Men who have the capacity of taking thought, whether in the ranks of labour or elsewhere, realise that those who are servants in an ill-managed enterprise cannot expect high rates of pay, or satisfactory working conditions. The defects in a nationalisation policy are naturally those which would directly affect the workers. There are, however, other aspects: an ill-managed shipping industry would have far-reaching results and would so gravely menace our industrial position that it is unthinkable for shipping to be taken out of the capable hands which in Great Britain have made it the pivot of the national fortunes, and entrust it to any group of departmental officials. A certain measure of State control, such as has been exercised in the past for the protection of public life and interests, is all that is required. Our shipowners can be trusted to do the rest—that is, to maintain a predominant Mercantile Marine—which, as the war has shown, was the only thing that in the end stood between us and the threat of becoming a vassal of a victorious Germany.

Recent experiences in the United States and France have let a flood of light on the inefficiency of State management of shipping. The running of ships is an expert and intricate business, and it is a commonplace which will not be disputed to assert that it is a business for which the Government type of mind is quite unfitted. It can hardly be doubted that the United States Shipping Board, which does not yet appear to have any definite policy, will in the end dispose of its vessels to private owners—although not, it is to be hoped, even under alleged safeguards, to German shipping companies. It is true that some of the smaller nations, and even our own Dominions, are experimenting with State-owned vessels, in some instances because no private industry is in existence, and in some other cases, and perhaps Australia may be included in this category, out of "sheer cussedness." These tendencies need not worry shippers overmuch. If the foreign rivalry our shipowners are to face is going to be State-owned shipping—while it is true that that rivalry of what may be subsidised Government fleets, will be unfair—it will also be relatively inefficient. The lesson of the past, and particularly of the war period, gives proof that nationalised shipping is likely to be a burden to any country which sanctions such a policy, with the inevitable effects of raising the prices of commodities and lowering wages. No risks of that kind, with all the evils which would follow in their train, can be run in connection with British shipping.

NOTES &amp; COMMENTS.

STORM &amp; TYPHOON SIGNALS.

We have now reached a month during which the hoisting of typhoon signals is generally quite frequent. June, in past years, has been fairly prolific in heavy "blows." Yesterday the new code of storm signals was in operation, the masthead yard-arms on Blackhead's Hill being used for the purpose. Because there happened to be a black cone on the top of the masthead, some people were under the impression that the typhoon signals were up. But if the recent official announcement had been borne in mind it would have been remembered that the public were warned not to be led into wrong conclusions. Let us try to straighten out this puzzle and explain how the situation really stands. There are two sets of signals in use in Hongkong. One is the China Coast Code, which is uniform with the Code in use at other ports and which informs shipping men of general storm conditions. These signals are now hoisted on Blackhead's (or Signal) Hill. This Code necessitates the use of a masthead signal, but this is smaller than, and must not be confused with, the local typhoon signals. Yesterday's confusion arose from the fact that this signal appeared on the mast where the typhoon signals were formerly displayed. The other set of signals—those of particular interest to Hongkong—deal solely with typhoons. They are now to be hoisted at the Observatory radio mast, and will only appear when there is a typhoon about, which is likely to affect Hongkong. So if you want to know whether the typhoon signals are up, don't bother about Blackhead's Hill; just look at the Observatory mast. The signals on Blackhead's Hill are solely concerned with China Coast storms.

THE DERBY.

The classic event of the Turf has had a rather sensational result this year. Spion Kop, a 100-to-6 chance, had an easy win, whilst the favourite, Tetra-tema, was not even amongst the first dozen. There have been surprises like that many times in the Derby; it is the glorious uncertainty of racing which is one of its greatest attractions. The second favourite was Archic, and the bookies were not out in their reckoning here, for Bellhouse's mount did get the second berth. Major McCalmont's Tetra-tema, which was the champion two-year-old last season, was strongly fancied to win, as the odds of 3 to 1 showed. Recently, when he won the Two Thousand Guineas, his chances of carrying off the blue ribbon of the turf appeared very bright; but he failed when the day came. He was early in the picture during the race. Carlslake, his rider, was apparently content to let somebody else make the running, for he lay behind the leader at the start and was still in second position when rounding Tatten-ham Corner. Then he seems to have dropped out of the race, much to the chagrin of his backers, no doubt. O'Neill, who rode the winner, must be immensely pleased with himself and his mount.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

It does not require great analytical propensities to be able to discern in recent cable messages the fact that, by degrees, the way is being made open for a resumption of trade relations between Britain and Russia. Reuters, we are told, is unable to obtain confirmation of the report that Soviet Russia is to be permitted to open a central trading office in London; "but there is nothing to prevent M. Krassin opening an office there in order to exchange views with British traders," although British goods cannot at present be exported to Russia. Now, isn't it about time all these preliminaries were cut out? If there is no intention of resuming commercial relations with Russia, what is M. Krassin doing in London, who has been received by Mr. Lloyd George and what would be the earthly use of his opening an office? Trade with Russia is coming, and perhaps recognition of the Soviet too. After all, any Government accepted by the people, and with proof of its stability, is good enough to recognise. It isn't our business what its politics are. We suppose trouble-holders are feeling a little happier these days.

MAN-DRIVEN AEROPLANES.

Paris, April 16.—Flight by human propulsion has for some time occupied the attention of French inventors. Considerable encouragement will be given to such attempts by the offer made by the well-known firm of Peugeot of a prize of 10,000 francs for the first "Aviette," as man-driven aeroplanes are called, to make a clean flight of 10 metres in two opposite directions. The competition is open to inventors of all nationalities except former enemy subjects.

REISS AND CO. SUMMONED.

FINED A DOLLAR FOR OBSTRUCTION.

Messrs. Reiss and Company were to-day summoned before Mr. R. O. Hutchison, at the Police Court, for obstruction of the public thoroughfare by depositing goods outside their godown in Catchick Street.

Representing the defendants, Mr. Turner said that it seemed to him that this sort of summons was getting pretty frequent. It was absolutely impossible, he said, for firms not to deposit their goods outside in the street pending their removal into the godowns. The interference of the Police would hamper their business.

Inspector Willis, who prosecuted on behalf of the Police, said that the Police could not make any distinction in offences of this character between Europeans and Chinese.

Mr. Turner said that in the present instance there was no unnecessary delay in the removal of the goods into the godowns. The goods were put on the pavement outside the building for only one or two minutes, owing to the pressure of work.

Inspector Willis said that it had been the practice of the Police to warn the godown keeper on a first offence.

It appears from the evidence of the Indian constable, at whose instance the summons was brought, that on the 26th instant at 10 a.m. he paid a surprise visit to Catchick Street whilst the work of unloading the goods from the Praya to the godown was in progress. He found 25 piles of cases deposited outside the building by the gang of coolies. Being a diligent constable, he paid other surprise visits at subsequent intervals, and found that the piles were not reduced to his liking. At the last visit, at 11.30, he warned the coolies, who, of course, paid no attention to the caution, as it was not their "piddin."

Mr. Turner said that what the constable ought to have done was to warn the godown keeper, he being responsible for the transportation of the cases.

The Magistrate agreed with Mr. Turner's view and in inflicting a nominal fine of $1 remarked that what the constable should have done in the case was to make his complaint to the proper authorities instead of watching and dodging round the corner in the way he did.

REISS AND CO. SUMMONED.

FINED A DOLLAR FOR OBSTRUCTION.

Messrs. Reiss and Company were to-day summoned before Mr. R. O. Hutchison, at the Police Court, for obstruction of the public thoroughfare by depositing goods outside their godown in Catchick Street.

Representing the defendants, Mr. Turner said that it seemed to him that this sort of summons was getting pretty frequent. It was absolutely impossible, he said, for firms not to deposit their goods outside in the street pending their removal into the godowns. The interference of the Police would hamper their business.

Inspector Willis, who prosecuted on behalf of the Police, said that the Police could not make any distinction in offences of this character between Europeans and Chinese.

Mr. Turner said that in the present instance there was no unnecessary delay in the removal of the goods into the godowns. The goods were put on the pavement outside the building for only one or two minutes, owing to the pressure of work.

Inspector Willis said that it had been the practice of the Police to warn the godown keeper on a first offence.

It appears from the evidence of the Indian constable, at whose instance the summons was brought, that on the 26th instant at 10 a.m. he paid a surprise visit to Catchick Street whilst the work of unloading the goods from the Praya to the godown was in progress. He found 25 piles of cases deposited outside the building by the gang of coolies. Being a diligent constable, he paid other surprise visits at subsequent intervals, and found that the piles were not reduced to his liking. At the last visit, at 11.30, he warned the coolies, who, of course, paid no attention to the caution, as it was not their "piddin."

Mr. Turner said that what the constable ought to have done was to warn the godown keeper, he being responsible for the transportation of the cases.

The Magistrate agreed with Mr. Turner's view and in inflicting a nominal fine of $1 remarked that

KOWLOON NOTES.

(BY "THE FERRYMAN")

So we're going to have bigger ferries. Good! Just! They're badly needed, anyhow. Won't Kowloon be an important place when we get these boats and the new pier which will have to be erected to accommodate them? We shall be imagining that we are in "Frisco or New York!"

The Ferry Company is to be congratulated on coming to this decision. Of late the Company has been most solicitous for the comfort and convenience of its patrons, but it has been handicapped by the fact that its boats have not been large enough to cope with the growing traffic. The enterprise of the management will have ample scope when the new programme is fully carried out.

I hope that when the new ferries are installed, better arrangements will be made for the carrying of passengers' luggage. At present, Chinese coming off the trains on to the ferry cause much obstruction by dumping their belongings down anywhere on the boats. Most of them seem to carry enough to furnish a small house, too.

But, what is much worse, these passengers crowd into the "saloons," take their shoes off, lie about and often indulge in their favourite pastime of clearing their throats, to the disgust and discomfort of others. What is really needed at present is that these people from the Canton train should be restricted to the use of a special ferry put on for their benefit.

Last week-end was miserably wet, and therefore the Tennis and Lawn Bowls League matches could not be decided. There is a most interesting programme down for decision to-morrow, though. Let's pray that it doesn't rain.

Kowloon is "coming on" all right. The Hon. Mr. John Johnston, at the Ferry Company meeting, referred to the attractions of Kowloon and the New Territories, and spoke most hopefully of its future. And there were quite a number of Kowloon people at Government House last night. We are moving, aren't we?

When it becomes the thing to live in Kowloon, we may possibly hear conversations something like this:

"Do you know Mrs. Blank?"
"No, who is she?"
"Well, they say her hubby has quite a fair biller, but not quite enough to enable them to live in Kowloon."

"Poor dears; it must be positively horrid having to live on the fog-laden Peak. So fearfully inaccessible, too."
"Quite. Yet a few years ago people thought it absolutely tony to live there. They couldn't really have enjoyed it, could they?"

My friend from Flatland reports as follows:—Quite a quiet week. There have been a few tussles with such old favourites as "The Village Blacksmith," "The Lost Chord," selections from "The Country Girl," and a few others. Nobody seriously hurt. Somebody with a really good tenor voice, but with a watch that must be an hour or two slow (so late did he begin) treated inhabitants to Tosti's "Good Bye" and some operatic music. Filipino string band filled in the time between songs whilst he recovered his breath. Activities of the bagpipers: Nil.

OBITUARY.

MR. J. B. PATELL.

The Parsee community mourns the loss of one of its respected members in the death of Mr. Jehangir Byramjee Patell, which occurred at Sharnon on Monday last. Deceased was in perfect health up to the very day of his death. A sudden attack of paralysis appears to have been the cause of his demise.

Born in Bombay, India, in 1866, the late Mr. J. B. Patell came to China in May 1885 and so had resided in Hongkong and Sharnon for over thirty-five years. During his early career in China he worked as a cotton yarn broker, being connected with such well-known Indian firms as Messrs. E. Fabany & Co., Messrs. S. J. David & Co., and Messrs. Greaves, Cotton & Co. At one time he was the sole proprietor of the Lyndhurst Terrace General Store of Patell & Co. During the last ten years he established himself in Sharnon as a Commission Agent for exporting silk piece-goods, etc., to India and other countries. By his frank, jovial nature he had endeared to himself all who came in contact with him, and when his body was brought over from Canton last Tuesday afternoon and buried in the Parsee Cemetery at Happy Valley, the whole of his community, including several Parsee ladies, as also members of the Portuguese and other Indian communities, testified their esteem and respect for him by attendance at the funeral. All the arrangements in connection with the bringing over of the body and its final disposal were admirably conducted by the trustees of the Zoroastrian Trust Funds, on the Board of which the deceased had been serving as a Trustee for nearly a year. At the Oshumna (third day) ceremony performed on Wednesday afternoon at the Parsee House in Shelly Street, much sympathy was expressed for his widow and a sum of over $400 was subscribed on the spot in memory of the deceased for charitable purposes in connection with the Zoroastrian Trust Funds. —Continued.

REPULSE BAY.

YESTERDAY'S FLYING.

The pleasant anticipations formed by a large number of residents of the Colony of the attractiveness of a jor-ride in an aeroplane were realised yesterday when, perfect weather prevailing, Captain Ricou was able to give flights at Repulse Bay in four of his machines which came over in the forenoon from Macao.

The event found the various garages and steam launch companies unable to cope with the vast volume of traffic to the bay and many people were left stranded, as it were, in the city. The management of the Hongkong Hotel, which had been of considerable assistance to Capt. Ricou in the promotion of the event, were amply rewarded by the big rush of custom at their Hotel in Repulse Bay. On the beach was large array of spare parts, motor spirits tins, and various odds and ends, comprising the equipment of the aviators, and these were looked after by a number of mechanics, for Capt. Ricou had spared no pains in making the undertaking a thorough success. Between 20 and 30 passengers were taken up for flights of 20 or 30 minutes duration. The machines which comprised the squadron which arrived in the forenoon at Repulse Bay in diamond-shaped formation, were a big passenger plane of 400 h. p. and three smaller ones termed aeromarine of 100 h. p. The passengers, who included a number of ladies, all declared, in spite of the peculiar sensations they must have undergone, that they enjoyed the trips immensely.

In the evening after the flight three of the machines returned to Macao leaving one of the smaller ones here, in which Captain Ricou is to return to Macao to-day. No flights are advertised for to-day, but on Saturday and Sunday, those who have not yet had the opportunity of going through the sensations of an aerial trip can have their wishes fulfilled in further exhibition flights.

CITY HALL CONCERT.

What promises to be an unusually good concert will be given at the old Chamber of Commerce room on Saturday evening. Mr. D. F. Amelias, who participates, is said to be one of the few artists who have taken the mandolin seriously and made of it an instrument for the exhibition of first class music. Such compositions as Liszt's fantasia, or Gounod's Faust, Tchaikowsky's "Romance and soon, he performs in a manner which those who have not heard him would hardly believe possible. Two other artists will also participate in the concert, one of whom, Madame Amelia Silvestri, Italian prima donna, has sung before the Royal Courts of England and Italy. Her contributions include numbers by Puccini, Fenocchielli, Pinzuti and Mascagni. The other is Prof. E. Danenberg, the well-known pianist, who needs no introduction in Hong-

SHIP FIRE.

SLIGHT OUTBREAK ON "KARMALA"

This morning a fire broke out on board the P. and O. vessel, Karmala, lying at Kowloon Wharf. The Fire Brigade received a call from the boat at 9.15, and the float was immediately turned out.

On arrival it was found that a small fire was burning in the lower store room of the vessel, and with the aid of a few buckets of water the outbreak was extinguished. It appears that the electric wires had fused, causing the conflagration. The damage was light. The float was not put into operation as its services were not required. Mr. Lane, the Superintendent of the Fire Brigade, attended the scene.

Along with the programme forebodings, a classical and popular musical treat.
